Integrating with Hanwha

Vanderbilt's award-winning ACTpro access control

Vanderbilt's award-winning ACTpro access control system now integrates with Hanwha Wisenet NVR (SUNAPI 2.5.7 or later). The operator can visually verify access control activity and video footage directly from ACTpro.

The integration removes the need for operators to use two separate software platforms. Operators can conveniently view live streams or recorded video associated with a door directly in ACTpro.

If a door has been forced open, an operator can simply right-click on the event listed in ACTpro to immediately replay the relevant recorded video.

Key Hanwha Features:

Wisenet WAVE makes it an almost effortless task to monitor HD video streams. Key features include:

- ✓ A virtual PTZ, which, with just a click of the mouse, enables operators to zoom in and view close-up detail of any suspicious activity.
- ✓ Push notifications of user-defined alarm events which can be sent to mobile devices.
- ✓ Support for Wisenet AI cameras allows the attributes of classified objects or people to be forensically searched by filtering recorded metadata.

Why This Integration Matters:

This integration is an excellent example of two leading technology brands cooperating to ensure mutual customers can efficiently and conveniently obtain maximum value from their investment in a security solution.

This integration makes for a more precise examination of the video system concerning the access control event. It also removes the operator's need to visit the Control Room to retrieve the footage. This can be viewed directly within ACTpro instead. This, of course, delivers an added layer of convenience for the system's end users.
