The following products are moving towards the end of their life cycle and the last time buys have been or are in the process of being delivered. The last time buy quantities have been established, and there will not be any opportunity to increase these quantities. The reasons for the phase-out are that:

- certain components are obsolete
- there is a change in the EN standards, which the products are not designed to pass
- manufacturing numbers have dropped significantly
- we have the Two-Way Wireless portfolio as an alternative product offering.
